

My Life as a Child of Deaf Adults: A Journey of Communication, Love, and Acceptance

My Life as a Child of Deaf Adults is a memoir by Donna Jo Napoli, who was born to deaf parents. The book chronicles her experiences growing up in a world where silence was the norm and communication was a challenge. Napoli's story is both heartbreaking and heartwarming, as she shares her struggles and triumphs with honesty and humor.

Napoli was born in 1948, and her parents were both deaf from birth. She was the only hearing child in her family, and she quickly learned to communicate with her parents using sign language. However, she also felt isolated from the hearing world, and she often struggled to fit in.

Despite the challenges, Napoli's parents were determined to give her the best possible life. They enrolled her in a mainstream school, and they encouraged her to pursue her interests in music and art. Napoli excelled in school, and she went on to college and graduate school. She eventually became a successful writer and teacher.

In My Life as a Child of Deaf Adults, Napoli shares her experiences with honesty and humor. She writes about the challenges she faced, but she also celebrates the love and acceptance she received from her parents. Napoli's story is an inspiration to anyone who has ever felt different or alone. It is a reminder that we are all connected, and that we can all find love and acceptance in the most unexpected places.
